CHAE CHAN PING.

THE CALIFORNIA LAWYERS FILE THEIR BRIEF.

In Which They Set Forth the Reasons Why the Scott Exclusion Act Should Stand.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

WASHINGTON, March 25th.—The joint brief of John P. Swift and Stephen M. White, counsel for California in the case of Chae Chan Ping vs. the United States, to test the constitutionality of the Scott Exclusion Act, which will be argued in the Supreme Court in a few days, has been prepared.

At the outset counsel say that the entire line of treaties providing for the admission of Chinese into the United States, and the Act of Congress excluding Chinese immigration are without precedent in the laws and treaties governing intercourse between civilized States. Counsel say:

The transit, in time of peace, of well-disposed persons of Chinese race, always permitted by the common and established usages of civilized nations, has been, in the case of Chinese, treated as a matter of temporary visitors, or when they were moving as travelers, or residing or pursuing their occupations as aliens, was never considered as a matter of right, and was not such as to require the exercise of the power of the country, and no breach of public law, or even of public hospitality was thereby to be considered.

the Secretary of State's office. It appears that the Governor telegraphed to his Secretary, Mr. Burck, to send the bills to the Senate. The latter made a flying trip to Sacramento and forwarded the bills on Saturday morning. In the quiet of the Sacramento office the Governor again examined the bills and finally concluded to waive his objections to them in deference to the unanimous sentiment of the people of this city.

afternoon by officers Ash and Campbell and charged with burglary. It is alleged that he entered the room of Jacob M. Nelson ous other articles of wearing apparel. The stolen property was found in his room at the Philadelphia House, but when he was

WHAT THEY THINK.

Even a Meager Exhibition Looks Well to Strangers.

Ens. Brown, in an examination of the number of visitors at the Exposition building shows that 256 names were registered during the past week, or an average of about 50 persons per day. It is safe to estimate that only about 75 per cent. of the visitors to the building register their names. Of the number registering about 50 per cent. are going north to Oregon and Washington Territory, about 50 per cent. to Los Angeles and Southern California, and the remaining 20 per cent. are local visitors, or those who are stopping with us to view the ground without having determined on any particular destination.
There seems to be a general disposition on the part of the public to feel discouraged at the display being made at the Exposition building, but the visitors who come from Kansas, Minnesota, Michigan and Iowa, all express themselves as well pleased with what they see, and say that nothing but the actual sight of such a grand display of vegetation would ever have convinced them of the wonderful productions of our valley.

Two men, a colored Baptist minister, appeared before the Board of Education and asked for permission to hold religious services on each Sabbath in the colored school building. The request was granted unanimously.

A vacation was ordered from April 26th to May 13th.

The Committee on Rules and Regulations reported that they were ready to be printed. They will be placed in the hands of the printer immediately, and proof-sheets will be furnished all the teachers for their criticism.

PUGNACIOUS LAWYERS.

Ex-Justice Davis Knocks Out Lawyer Wharton.

A lively fight took place on the sidewalk on J street, near the corner of Fourth, yesterday morning, between ex-Justice of the Peace G. Davis and lawyer Wharton, in which the latter came off second best.
The fight was occasioned by the fact that the Police Court yesterday morning, the ex-Justice stated that Wharton had come to his office and proposed to settle the case for a coin consideration. When the Police Court opened yesterday Wharton appeared and stated that he had a statement to make under oath. He denied that he had offered to compromise the case out of Court, and characterized Davis' statement as "an untimely lie." On making this statement he was interrupted by the Court and informed that such language would not be permitted in this court. Wharton then replied that he would see him out of Court, and that he would see him out of Court.
The adjournment of the Court the lawyers met on the sidewalk on J street, and Davis demanded a retraction. Wharton, who is a much heavier man than Davis, replied that he was not in the habit of retracting, whereupon Davis "let go his right," planting a terrific blow on Wharton's left eye, which knocked him down.
He was proceeding to administer further punishment when some one caught hold of him and gave the fallen man a chance to recover for the second round. The fight was renewed without a call of "time," and Davis was punishing his adversary pretty severely when the men were separated. All the punishment was on one side.

TRIED TO ESCAPE.

James Kearney Takes Desperate Chance for Liberty.

James Kearney was brought before Judge Armstrong yesterday for sentence, having pleaded guilty to the crime of burglary.
In entering the store of M. L. & T. L. Perkins, on J street, near the corner of Fourth, he was caught by the police. He had been before, and the Court had decided to examine into the case further, on the prisoner's statement that it was his first crime.
In the meantime George W. Smith, the baggage-master at the depot, had been sub-penned, and yesterday testified that Kearney had stolen a valise from the baggage-room at the depot. He fully identified the prisoner. The latter stoutly denied stealing the valise, and Judge Armstrong concluded to still further investigate before pronouncing sentence. He ordered the prisoner returned to his cell, and the Corporal Mullen motioned to Kearney, and he got up promptly and passed the Sheriff toward the Court-room door and into the hallway.
The moment he reached the hallway, Mullen made a dash for the front exit of the Court-house. Sheriff McMullen called loudly on him, but he paid no attention to the order. He fairly leaped down the granite steps and was on the street with him. Just as he reached the street, a man in a dark prisoner reached the sidewalk, yelled "Stop!
Stop!" Kearney gave no heed to the warning, and the Sheriff then then then then over the head of the retreating burglar, but the crack of the weapon only served to increase the speed. The Sheriff then then then towards J. Just before he reached the burglar a third shot was fired at him, but he was not hurt. He then then then then stronger impetus than the fear of death because he could conquer. It was impossible to follow the burglar as he reached the street and passed the Sheriff. The burglar then passed along, because of the people passing along. Kearney continued his flight until he was about to turn into J street.
Seeing a citizen, attracted by the sight of the Sheriff, stopped the thief and held him captive until McMullen came up. Kearney was taken back to the Court-house, and locked up, being followed as far as the Sheriff's office by a crowd.

BAND CONCERT.

Close of the Series—A Success—A Presentation.

The Artillery Band Concert last night was the concluding one of the series. It was the best and drew the largest audience, the Metropolitan Theater being nearly full as was comfortable. It was an appreciative and a thoroughly representative audience. The soloists were three in number. Mrs. Marine-Campbell, an old Sacramento favorite, was received with a cordially and warmly testifying to the fact that she has not been forgotten in her former home. She had two regular numbers upon the programme, "Serenata Española" and "Give My Love Good Morning," the latter with flute obligato by Mr.
Neale. She was not only given handsome floral pieces, but insisted on receiving her compliments with the flattering demand for other songs, and she sang two. The fine ensemble of the Artillery Band, the sweetness of her tones and the finished style of her execution made the four numbers entirely satisfying to the critical audience. Mrs. Salano was very successful harp solos, being twice recalled after one and responding to both encores. C. B.
Stelmarman played an exceedingly difficult
